

EPS does not present a health risk

Cakes, ice cream and meat are all packed in EPS; nursing pillows are filled with EPS beads... If there were even the slightest risk that EPS might constitute a health risk, ministries of health and food safety authorities would immediately prohibit its use in such sensitive areas.

- Even highly biologically sensitive bee colonies appreciate polystyrene. EPS beehives are extremely durable and require little care. The bees are happy in poly hives and quickly start to make honey.

Source: Wikimedia Commons

Photo: EPS beehive